October 10 – Tool Sale and Various Demos

November 14 -

December – 12 Christmas Party

Message from the President:

I will never lose a tiny piece from it being thrown off the table saw again. Thanks Bob. A hair dryer – how clever is THAT!? I thought my eraser on a dowel as a replacement for a pencil was clever, but a hair dryer ... If I never put the wealth of information Bob provided in his segmented bowl demonstration to use, it will have been time well spent – I now have an old hair dryer in the shop.

This month is the annual tool sale and exchange. Bring our your unused, underused, unwanted, unknown tools and let's move them around. That widget that you don't know where you got, or even quite what it is may be just the thing I am seeking. For those of you who have been with us less than a full year, this is the Member to Member Market writ large. Additionally we will be having several demonstrations going on simultaneously; there will be something for everyone.

No one has stepped up to be the Beads of Courage point person – perhaps this is how you can help children in our community.

We have been asked to sponsor a continuing Beads of Courage project, providing Bead Boxes to Brenner Children's Hospital in Winston-Salem. Scarlette Rouse scarletterouse@gmail.com is spearheading the project state wide and at the upcoming NC Symposium. We need someone to take it on here and work with Scarlette.

+++++PLEASE RESPOND+++++

NEED VOLUNTEERS to help with the NC Woodturning symposium, Nov. 3-5

Need to have at least 2 people for each demonstration period to

- * assist demonstrator as needed

Need several people to help unload the trailer and setup our demo room on Friday morning 9AM to 12 and take down Sunday afternoon 3PM until done.

A signup sheet will be available at the October meeting. If you do not attend the meeting, you can still volunteer. Look at the demonstration "Rotation Schedule" and pick a time to be in room 4A. October: Apple Season in North Carolina! Apple festivals abound in North Carolina in September and October. They generally start on Labor Day weekend and continue through late October – the latest one I see is October 21 in Waynesville. To celebrate this important part of our culture and economy here in the Piedmont and west, turn an apple. Big, little, stylized, traditional, natural, ... the choice is yours.

November: How about something with a Thanksgiving theme? Turn a turkey – or bring in that project that turned into a turkey and tells how it all went so terribly wrong! Or, perhaps turn an item from the 1600's – a muddler, a wooden spoon, a drinking glass, what else can you envision?

- Treasury report, $7000 in the account.
- Jim Terry received special recognition for his work for our club. Jim handles our web site, newsletter and email communications as well as many other functions that make our club function.
- Bob Holtje will work on a project with a major wood supplier for the members to collectively purchase turning stock at club prices.
- The presentation for the night is by Bob Schasse on Segmented Turning. This is a more detailed step by step of his process. Bob included a video of his process as well as handouts. Then he demonstrated his process on the lathe.
